RAILBOAD OFFICE FOR RENT .- A wellof the Dailly Passas building, suitable for railroad or insurance office. Apply at the Passa Counting-room, Vine-street, opposite the Custom-house.

APPOINTMENT OF A LIBUTENANT OF THE POLICE.—Edward T. Harmon, a Third Ward policeman, was yesterday appointed lieutenant at the Hammond street Station-house, MAN DROWNED.—A man named Peter Weisenberger, who resides in the Seven-teenth Ward, near the Marine-railway, was drowned yesterday by falling from a skiff, while attempting to cross the river to James-town. He was about forty years of age, and leaves a family.

Arnest of Supposed Burglars . - Two men, Timothy Shay and Theodore Gardiner, were yesterday arrested, the former in the Seventeenth Ward, and the latter in the Fourth, as suspected burglars. A great number of instruments for picking locks, &c., were found in their possession. They will probably be examined to day.

A FEMALE HELD OVER ON A CHARGE OF ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL.—Jenny Blake, who assaulted Jenny Smith at 29 Sixth-street, night before last, was yestorday held over in the sum of $75%, for her appearance at the next term of the Court of Common Pleas, on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

COUNTY MATTERS.—The Commissioners, at their session yesterday, passed the following orders: To T. W. Ward, for lumber on Ernst-bridge, $42 10; payment on Lockland-bridge, $78 09. The contract for the construction of a culvert on the Bates-road was readed to W. Reader & $218 payments. warded to Wm. Reeder, at $2 18 perperch. Drs. Serious Accident.—A laborer, whose name we were unable to learn, was yesterday severely injured while unloading a load of sand on the corner of John and Everett-streets, by being caught between the whicel of his vehicle and a lamp-post. When taken up he was entirely insensible, and was removed to the house of Mrs. Gorman, who resides in the violents and restorations are resides in the vicinity, and restoratives applied. He lives on Sycamore-street, between Sixth and Seventh.

OVERSHORS .- J. H. Deters, 53 West Four street, has just received something entirely new in the way of overshoes for ladies and gentlemen's wear. They are equally as gentlemen's wear. They are equally as warm as the buffalo shoe, and are much lighter, more durable, and very genteel in appearance. For a traveling shoe they surpass any thing that has ever been in this market. Call at once and get a pair, as the time is fast approaching when you will need them.

BURGLARY ON LIBRARY-STREET,—The house of a man named Jacob Weimer, on Liberty-street, between Plum and Elm, was entered by burglars, night before last, and robbed of $136 in money, which was lying in a bureau drawer. The entrance was effected, and the drawer unlocked by means of false keys, and there can be no doubt but the thief was well acquainted with the premises, and knew that he money was in the house.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY .- The report of the Grand Jury to the County Commis-sioners has been received. They state that 130 witnesses have been examined, in fifty 130 witnesses have been examined, in fifty cases; and that forty-two indictments have been found. They report the County Jall in as good condition, with respect to cleanliness, as such an old building can be made, and they are satisfied that the prisoners are well fed. They suggest the removal of some vaults, in close proximity to the badly-ventilated cells as the expense would be triffing. tilated cells, as the expense would be trifling.

APPOINTMENT OF INSPECTORS,—The Board Directors of the Chamber of Commerce eld a meeting last night for the purpose of ecommending suitable persons for the offices f Inspectors of Flour and Provisions, and a of Inspectors of Flour and Provisions, and a Scaler of Weights and Measures, and chose the following-named persons, provided they agree to be bound by such regulations in the performance of their duties as the Chimber may prescribe:

Inspectors of Flour—John S. Powers and Samuel B. Nafew.

Inspector of Provisions—John Shidler.

Sealer of Weights and Measures—Wm.

Sealer of Weights and Measures - Wm. Convention of the Sons of Malta, of this state, was held at the Madison House in this city, on Wednesday last, and a Grand Lodge of the State formed, and the following of-ficers elected for the ensuing year: Supreme Grand Commander—C. H. Col-lins PAINTING THE LILY.—Theodosia Bonner, a fair Corinthian, was brought before the Police Court yesterday, on complaint of a gentleman of color. The colored gentleman testified that he was stepping off the curb-stone to cross the street, when Theodosia, who was passing with three of her companions, spoke to him. He turned toward her, when as if a new with three of her companions, spoke to him. He turned toward her, when, as if a new light had struck her, she said: "O, you are a nigger." He rapiled with proper indignation. "What you call me nigger for, you masty, mean trash? I fix you." Whereupon he followed her until they came across one of our ever-vigilant police, to whom he consigned Theodosia and his wounded honor. The rigs however who were with Theo-The girls, however, who were with Theodosia, gave a different version. They testified that the colored person accosted Theodosia, and asked her to go home with him, when she called him a nigger. Two other girls testified that the colored person had girls testified that the colored person had been planted there for some time, making the same proposals to passing females.

Judge Lowe said that the practice of insulting persons on the street should be stopped, and he would make an example of Theodosia, which he did by a fine of $25 and ten days' imprisonment. This made an example of Theodosia; by which the Judge did not mean that it would make her in exemplary character. The companions of Theodosia were in Court with her, looking upon the matter in the color of a joke, but they found it rather high-colored when the Judge astonished them.

upon the matter in the color of a joke, but they found it rather high-colored when the Judge astonished them.

The Court probably regarded Theodosia as subject to the laws which govern common carriers, and therefore, as having no right to refuse the amerous solicitations of the colored person. It is pleasing to see the Court vindicating the right of the solored race to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

As the Court has fixed the price of calling a half-colored man a nigger, it is probable that a tariff will soon be made out for all thades of this offense. It would be rather a costly thing to easil a white mansa sigger, and to call one a Black Republican will probably cost considerable money in our Fosice Court. In a city where persons are sometimes excluded from the street cars for their color, which might be taken as a pretty direct intimation that they were not white, this is doing pretty well. It shows that there shall be no distinctions of color in the Police Court.

Lecture for the Benefit of the Ludies

A lecture, for the benefit of the Ladies' He me Mission, was last night delivered, by Rev. J. L. G. McKown, at the Methodist Episcopal Church on Ninth-street, between Race and Eim. The attendance was large, the house being entirely filled. The subject of the lecture was "James Fonuimore Cooper and Imaginative Literature"—truly a strange theme for a clergyman, and his defense of novel-reading would hardly be regarded with favor by the straightest of the orthodex.

After appouncing his subject he reversed lis order, and commenced with a defense of novel-reading, in which he evinced a knowledge of that class of literature seldom possessed by men of his profession. He was very profuse in his reference to Adam Bede, Scott's, Baiwer's and other novels, frequently drawing illustrations from them which showed an extensive latitude of reading, but had little relation to the particular subject under consideration.

He said that the idea was prevalent that writers of fiction were moon-struck, love-sick subjects, and unfit for this world; when they were spoken of they were classed with the gods, as feeding on nectar. He spoke of Byron, and said that many consigned him to the smoke of that hell be had created for himself. His ungallant conduct toward the female sex has always been condemoed; but those who knew the character of his wife and mother could easily forgive him.

He claimed for imagination much more than was usually allotted to it; he said even in the pure mathematics, it was frequently

If the imaginative or novel writer, teaches truth and morality, it is our duty to shake hands with him, introduce him to our families, and make his productions the companions of our freeides. Children will read the companions of our freeides. panions of our firesides. Children will read faction, and if we fail to choose for them, they will choose for themselves; if we do not give them time to read, they will ruin their constitutions by reading while they should be at rest; and the only choice left us is to decide whether our children shall enjoy health in body and mind, by reading the works of Scott and Cooper at proper intervals, or be Scott and Cooper at proper intervals, or be ruined in both, by unsensonable hours, and the trash that is weekly thrown off from the public press.

Shall we fail to admire beauty of diction and purity of morals, in the productions of Bulwer, Byron and Scott, simply because they, in their lives, did not fully come up to their precepts?

the advancement of the institution with remarkable success. The classes have not only been wonderfully improved, but the

The average cost for the educa-tion of each pupil is nearly $19, which ex-ceeds the cost nearly $5 per pupil educated in the public schools, but if we consider the various branches taught in our school, com-prising English, German and Hebrew, pen-menally drawing seving and embroider. manship, drawing, sewing and embroider-ing, we must come to the conclusion that this course of atudies is obtained at a very

"The general attendance was very good;

"The past year has, I believe, been judiciously spent by the teachers and pupils; the classes have steadily advanced along; the course of studies in some respects has taken higher ground in attainment than the preceding ones. The standard of scholarship is more satisfactory, and the acquirements more solid and acceptable. I do not think that the general ability is better than in the classes of previous years, but in thoroughness of mental discipline and accuracy of knowledge, we have improved.

Pike's Opera-house.—Pike's Opera-house was again filled last night, to see that popular consession, Barney Williams, whose genuine personation of Irish characters can only be appreciated by those who have seen them. To-night Mr. Williams will take a benefit, and will appear as "Sir Patrick O'Plenipo," in The Irish Embassador, and in favorite characters in other pieces. His many admirers can now have an opportunity to testify in a substantial manner their appreciation of their favorite.

NATIONAL THEATER.—The performance as the National Theater last night was good the Wabb Sisters personating the principal characters. To-night, will be presented The Female Brigand; Mility, the Maid of the Milking Paik, and In and Out of Place; a bill sufficiently attractive to draw a full house,

Madame Stahl's performance on the harp was excellent, and elicited the warnest op plause, while "Old" Tosso, we think, never appeared to more advantage on his favorite instrument. He is associated with our childish recollections, and whenever we hear his sweet and expressive notes, the faded years arise, and in the mirror of the past we see again the little beauty and happiness we have known.

His overture to Massaniello was beautiful full of sympathy, sentiment and soul. His execution of Paganiai's composition was well rendered, but the theme was too fragmentory and erratic to gratify our taste.
The "Dream on the Ocean," preceded by the LAW REPORT.

ILLEGAL VOTING.—John Carroll was placed on trial before Judge Carter and a jury, indicted for voting twice at the late Presidential election in the Thirteenth Ward.

Daniel Hannan, one of the judges at the polls, testified that at eleven o'clock the prisoner deposited his vote with him; and D. J. Toohy, also one of the judges, deposed that he handed a ballot to him at one o'clock. Wash, Armstrong testified that he did not think Carroll had sense enough to vote. He think Carroll had sense enough to vote. He always regarded him as a monomaniac on the subject of the elective franchise.

Cross-examined—Q.—You say you do not think he had sense enough to have a vote at all—did you ever take his vote when you kad charge of the ballot-box?

A.—I did, sir.

Q.—Why did you, if you had this opinion of him?

A.—Because I had no right to reject the vote of an elector who resided in the Ward.
Q.—If a habbling idiot came by, would you let him vote? A.—In such a case I would probably hesitate, and consult the judges.
Q-Did you hesitate about taking his vote?

A.—I did not. At the same time I do not think that a man with as little sense ought to be permitted to vote. I doubt very much whether he knew who he was voting for.

P. Gorman examined—The defendant was a very foolish man when drunk; and, indeed, was not very rational whether drunk or sober. On the occasion of an election for Councilman he was charged with selling his vote for twenty-five cents, and he acknowledged to witness that he did so. edged to witness that he did so.

Frank Armstrong, D. Donovan, A. McCabe and D. Healy also testified to the singular characteristics of the defendant's mind when he had drank liquor,

The Jury, after about half an hour's de-liberation, found the defendant guilty, and accompanied the verdict with a recommendation to mercy.

W. H. Kerr appeared for the State; and D. J. Toohy and J. W. Johnson for defense.

SUPERIOR COURT Geiser vs. The City.—Tried before Judge Spencer. Verdict for plaintiff for $800. In the case of Lange vs. Gross & District, Judge Hoadly sustained a demurrer to the defense; and in the case of Mahon vs. Brooks, granted a new trial.

COAL OIL.—We have frequently had occasion to speak of the advantages of coal oil, and its various good qualities, and each day

NEWPORT NEWS.

The Consequence.—A few mornings since during a heavy fog on the river, one of Capt. Air's ferryboats collided with a flat-boat loaded with tan-bark, and made fast to the shore. The collision caused the flatboat to break loose, and before it could be landed again, it had floated below the foot of Fifthstreet. The owner yesterday presented a bill of damages amounting to $40 to Captain Air, and expressed a willingness to compromise the matter, by having his boat towel to the foot of Race-street, where he intended to a foot of Race-street, where he intended to ad. The affair will probably be adjusted in that manner.

SCHOOL MATTERS.—The new school-house in the Fifth Ward has been completed, and the children are expected to meet there on Monday next. The scholars of the Fourth Ward will also be in attendance at the above school-house in order that the Trustees may cure new apartments for them in their own district. We are pleased to see so much in-terest taken in the education of the youth of this city by parents, teachers and the School MAYOR'S COURT .- A man named Charles Switzer, a vinegar manufacturer, was before Mayor Hawkins yesterday, charged with creating a anisance by throwing the "mother" of the vinegar on the street. This caused his neighbors to feel very sour, and they caused his arrest. The Mayor discharged him upon the payment of the costs and giv-ing a promise not to repeat the offense.

Insurance.—By referring to the advertising columns our readers will perceive the eard of the Home Insurance Company, of New York, for which Mr. H. Buchanan, of this city, is agent. This company has a cash capital of $1,000,000, and is one of the most reliable of any in the United States.

HUNTERS.—Last evening, Captain John Mead and C. P. Buchanan departed on a hunting expedition in the wilds of the Hoosier State. They left on the Ohio and Mississippi Railrond, and will be absent but a few days.

Extraordinary Incident at the Trial of a to Murder Christians in Syria-Revelations of Alarmed Scal-makers.

An incident in the trial of Ahmet Pasha will serve to show the depth of his treachery and the blackness of his heart: "Why did you allow this wholesale mur-

"Punish the Christians! For what? I am not aware that you had any orders to punish the Christians—let me see them."

the Christians—let me see them."

"The Christians had conspired against the Government of the Sultan, and I wished to punish them for their treachery."

"Show me your evidence of this conspiracy," said Faud Pasha.

"Here it is, read it, and see that I have been faithful to my master," and Ahmet Pasha drew forth a long document, signed by the stalls of about fifty of the principal citizens of Damascus, containing a plot by the seals of about fifty of the principal citizens of Damascus, containing a plot against the Turkish Government.

"Send for the persons whose names are appended to this document, and confront them with these signatures."

They were brought and examined and cross-questioned, but no light could be gained. They denied all knowledge of such a document, but acknowledged the resemblance of the signatures and seals to their own. Their astonishment seemed so natural that Fuad Pasha was for a moment puzzled to know whether the Pasha was deceiving him, or whether the Christians were really conspirators, or the victims of some hellish conspirators, or the victims of some hellish fraud. A few moments' reflection suggested an expedient which solved the difficulty.

The scal-makers of all Eastern cities are limited in number, and are licensed by the Government; and as every man's signature is thus in their hands—for Orientals, instead of signing their names, use a small copper of signing their names, use a small copper or brass seal—they are placed under bonds to prevent them from committing forgery. An order was given for the arrest of the six seal-makers of Damascus, and they were brought into court.

Being duly questioned as to the number of seals made by them during the year, they gave no indication of bad faith, when Fuad Pasha announced the discovery of the for-gery of fifty Christian names, and told them. Pashs announced the discovery of the for-gery of fifty Christian names, and told them, as they hoped for pardon, to confess fully their guilt. Greatly terrified, two seal-makers came forward and threw themselves at his feet. They testified that they had been taken secretly to the house of a Tarkish Ef-fendi, and were forced, by threats of violence to make duplicates of fifty Christian seals in their possession, but that they were entirely their possession, but that they were entirely ignorant of the use made of them, as they were sent away by the Effendi with a reward after having given a solemn promise never to make the matter public.

Every man i looked upon in the room had a history, a public and a painful one. Close to the door stood a staiwart "popolano," who had been a fellow-prisoner with Poerio. Then there was the Duke ____, who had had his chain, and wrote the history of his voyage when he accompanied Poerio to fingland; and General Stocco, whose arm was still weak from a shot he received in Sicily. I sat by Felice Pirri, a Capitain in the Marine. "It is a day too delightful to me, and is an ample compensation," said he, "for a life of suffering. The convest of the forts is described as a dashing little campaign of eight days. The Allies established themsulves at Och-tang. They had still a much of twelve miles before they could arrive at the object of their attack. The Chinese were learning the art attack. The Chinese were learning the art of war, and, contrary to all Chinese precedent, it was found that their positions upon the road had been taken with considerable military skill and fortified with much care. A Tartar camp had been formed, and the best troops of China were placed behind the works. It was thought that if the weapons of the Chinese had been equal to those of the Allies, the contest might have favorably compared with several European battles. The English and French acted together with harmeny and could gallanter in the attack.

The English and French acted together with harmony and equal gallantry in the attack. The Allies had got to within half a mile of the Great North Fort, which appears to be the key of the whole position, although some difference of opinion is said to have occurred among the Generals on the point. The French Commander agreed to send his forces to the attack, leaving to Sir Hope Grant the responsibility. The attack was made on the morning of the 2int, four Eaglish and four French gun-boats drawing the attention of the forts lower down on the northern bank. When the batteries were opened the execution of the Armstrong-guns was found to be tremendous, as their shells pierced and barst the walls of the fort, and an awful explosion shock the ground; but amid the ruins the Tartars stood to their amid the ruins the Tartars stood to their under the necessity of communicating these orders to the Sardinian Admiral, as the attack had not been anticipated.

"Napoleon's private Secretary accepts the proposal of an excursion of English volunteers to Paris, and assures them of a walcome."

BALTIMONE, November 15.—Rather a better feeling prevails in commercial circles today. There was something of a run on the Citizen's Bank, but all the demands were promptly met. The best informed express full confidence in the soundness of the bank. Many of the manufacturing establishments, clothiers, &c., have reduced the number of their hands. This is severely felt by the working classes, but it is hoped that confidence will soon be measurably restored and former activity in business resumed.

former activity in business resumed. Movements of the Government: New York, November 15.—The Econing Post says that the Government has ordered the corvette Savannah, now lying at Brooklyn, to be put in readiness for a trip to Charleston, and that the recruits ordered from this city for California have been stopped, and are awaiting further orders.

THE DOWAGER EMPRESS OF RUSSIA PROBABLY DRAD—HER ANYECEDERTS.—The Dowager Empress of Russia is either dead or on the point of death. One report announces her demise, while another of the same date states that she was gradually failing, with but slight hopes of recovery.

The Empress was the daughter of Frederic William III, King of Prussia, and sister of the present King; was born on the 13th of July, 1795, and baptized under the names of Frederica-Charlotte-Louise-Wilhelmina. On her aineteenth birthday site was married to the then Grand Duke Nicholas, and on his accession to the throne of Russia by the accession to the throne of Russia by the strange withdrawal of his brother Constanstrange withdrawal of his brother Constantine, was crowned with him in 1820, at Moscow. The domestic relations of the royal family of Russia are said to be very happy, and the affection existing between the various members much stronger than usual among royalty. The late Empress bore the reputation of a faithful and devoted wife. During the last illness of the Czar Nicholas she attended to him personally, and his death had a great effect upon her.

The health of the Empress failing, she recently went to Nice, but all efforts to preserve her health have proved unavailing, and she has succumbed to a consumptive disease.
